

The guest is nearly here

B1 · Teens and adults · 50-60 minutes

It is 5:40 p.m. You are at home. Keep this page private.

BUILDING NOTICE

Gate code changed

5:00 p.m. today

The new code is 4526.

The old code, 3812, no longer works.

Building manager

What you know

You still expect Kim at six. You have not sent her the new code.

You put a dog mat beside the sofa at 5:10, ready for any visiting dog.

The living-room window is still open. You have not bought oat milk. You do not know what Jo has bought or which code Jo sent.

1. Answer Jo's call. Ask about Kim's arrival, breakfast needs and the message Jo sent.

2. Exchange your news. Explain the code, mat and window. Ask what Jo has already done. Which completed job needs doing again?

3. Agree two final jobs. Decide who will do each job. What can you tell Kim now?

Useful phrases

Have you... yet? / I've already... / When did you... ?

Which code did you send? / So we still need to... / I'll...

4. Give Kim an accurate update

Include one completed job, one past detail and your plan. Do not describe a promised job as already done. Practise once; after feedback, try again with your teacher's new message.

Job 1: _____ Who? _____

Job 2: _____ Who? _____